Chance Morgan Unicoaster Turns San Diego Upside-Down

Wichita, Kan. — Residents of San Diego, Calif. were sent spinning in all directions by the new Chance Morgan Unicoaster at Belmont Park on January 16, 2011.

Named the Octotron by its owners, the ride is the only one of its kind to be located in California. The Octotron is a rider controlled experience that thrills all ages. While the more daring rider will thrust their seat into forward and backward spins from start to finish, those looking for a more mild experience will be equally excited to speed around the undulated track and feel the wind in their hair.

According to San Diego Coaster Company's general manager, Wendy Crain, the new attraction has been a hit. "It was immediately evident once we opened the ride that it would be a success. All ages, all smiles, the public response was amazing!"

Belmont Park is a seven-acre beach front amusement park and entertainment center located at the corner of Mission Blvd. and West Mission Bay Drive in Mission Beach. The amusement rides at Belmont Park are operated by San Diego Coaster Company. For more information about Belmont Park, visit www.belmontpark.com
