Chance C.P.H Train is a “Rolling Work of Art”

Wichita, Kan. — A bright red and black Chance C.P. Huntington locomotive with chrome trim is now at the head of the Santa Barbra Zoo Train. The 6,100-pound engine joins the Zoo’s blue locomotive, Kate, and red and green engine, Victor, all handmade by Chance Rides, Inc. in Wichita, Kan.

“Many kids say their favorite animal at the Zoo is the train,” said David Velazquez, Director of Guest Services for Santa Barbra Zoo. “We’ve been working on this engine for about a year and it surpassed even my wildest expectations. It is a one-of-a-kind, rolling work of art.”

The new engine is named Emmett by its generous sponsors, the Duncan Family and Rusty’s Pizza Parlors, who sponsor all three of the Zoo’s locomotives. The Duncan Family even traveled with Velazquez to the Chance Rides Factory in Wichita to oversee production and select the custom colors and trim for the train.

In honor of their newest train, Santa Barbra Zoo has created the Conductors Club, which is open to train lovers of all ages and includes invitations to special train events, photo opportunities, train tickets, train fact sheet, and train-related collectibles. Memberships begin at $50 and support train upkeep.
