FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Galaxyland Set to Open New Ride on December 1st.

Edmonton, AB Canada — Galaxyland in West Edmonton Mall is set to debut their newest ride with a free ride event on December 1st. The ride is the Chance Rides Unicoaster, decked out with 15,360 RGB LED lights, provided by EWorks Pro. Each individual like can produce up to 32 different colors, and the display bouncing off the chrome-like center hub and sweeps is just spectacular. The Unicoaster is a rider controlled experience, allowing riders to control the spinning action with a joystick. The ride can go from mild to wild by your choosing, press the joystick forward to make your seat roll forward, press the joystick backwards to make your seat roll backwards or leave it steady to enjoy a calm ride over the undulating track.

The people at Galaxyland put more control in the hands of their ride fans when they conducted a contest to name the new ride. The overwhelming favorite and winning name is Zero Gravity. The post on Facebook announcing the contest received over 800 comments and name suggestions. The winner of the contest has received a one year pass for unlimited rides at Galaxyland. Congratulations to the winner and good luck to all those entering Zero Gravity on December 1st.

You can find out more about Galaxyland and their new ride on the Facebook page facebook.com/wemattractions.
